“Where there is charity and wisdom, there is neither fear nor ignorance.”

-St. Francis of Assisi
I have a much-loved, greatly-admired friend who has been battling cancer for the last couple of years. She is my hero, so when her birthday rolled around I sought a meaningful gift. Weeks before, she’d linked me to someone she met in the lobby of her oncologist’s office. This new acquaintance was really struggling physically, emotionally and financially. Photos on her social media page broke our hearts; she was gaunt with dark circles under her eyes, and connected to tubes and monitors. So, in honor of my friend’s birthday, I contributed to her new friend’s Go Fund Me page. My longtime pal was delighted; I was happy – I’d found the perfect gift. Until we learned that the person she had befriended was a fraud who has gone to extreme measures to appear terminally ill while stealing thousands of dollars by posing as a cancer patient. She is apparently under investigation by the FBI, having served two prison sentences for the same deception in the past. Among her tricks she had a port, took injections, shaved her head, stole brain scans, faked ER visits to acquire hospital bracelets and lied.

Which brings me to lessons learned.

I’ve worked in the field of philanthropy, championing the spirit of giving for over twenty years. Should I have known better? Yes. I gave with a loving heart; I just wish my brain would have been a bit more involved in the process. Will it stop me from giving again in the future? No. I’ve just been reminded about the importance of trust, transparency and credibility. Ironically, long before any of this happened, we’d decided the theme of this annual report would be Smart Giving.

While the Community Foundation can’t direct money to individuals, we do hold a number of funds that support great organizations helping people. Our Whitley County Cancer Care Fund is often used to support Cancer Services of Northeast Indiana as they meet the needs of local cancer patients. Through trusted referrals and a committee offering oversight, our Edwin E. and Flossie L. Heupel Good Samaritan Fund has helped families facing health crises for the past two decades. Agency funds such as those for Mission 25 or Passages are also great conduits for carefully supporting people who really need help.

Here at the Community Foundation our Board has approved policies to protect our donors. We make it our job to understand needs in Whitley County, then we share what we know to help donors make informed decisions about their charitable gifts. But smart giving isn’t just about using caution in donating. The Community Foundation staff is knowledgeable about a variety of tools that can help contributors be savvy when it comes to maximizing tax savings through charitable giving and estate planning. We work in tandem with professional advisors to explore opportunities and meet challenges.

The Community Foundation also owes it to our donors to be informed and thoughtful when it comes to grant making. We do our best to make smart decisions; we view our grants as investments in community. There is no guarantee that every grant will be a home run, but together with our grantees we learn and adjust to improve our understanding of what works.

Sadly, there are corrupt people in the world. Fortunately, this report is evidence that there are far more individuals motivated by love and kindness. Just look at the list of people who gave generously for bettering Whitley County in 2018. We thank each and every one for their trust in our work and confidence in our abilities.

Here’s to smart giving.
Endowments created through the Community Foundation represent a shared belief in a better tomorrow. Here’s how they work:

When a donor makes a charitable gift to establish or support an existing endowment fund, we don’t spend the donation. Ever. Instead, we save the gift and invest it wisely to grow and produce earnings. A portion of those earnings are used to make grants or fund scholarships. With appropriate investment and spending policies, the endowment’s purchasing power will be preserved over time. An endowment fund that generates income to assist in running a shelter or offer a scholarship today can be designed to produce income to fund the same causes twenty years from now and beyond. Endowments grow over time and can receive additional gifts from multiple donors.

Agency Endowments

These endowment funds benefit the non-profit organizations for which they are named by creating a stable, annual income stream. While they benefit specific organizations, they are an asset of the Community Foundation.

Donor Advised Endowments

A Donor Advised fund is an easy and cost-effective way to support your favorite nonprofits anywhere in the country, at any time you choose. Gifts to your fund qualify for an immediate tax deduction, regardless of when you decide to recommend grants. Community Foundation staff will confirm that your recommended charities meet IRS requirements and then issue grant checks to the organizations. The donor retains an advisory capacity in recommending grants from the fund which is individually named and identified with reference to the donor, donors or donor family members.

The Passages to the Future Fund is an agency endowment which exists to support the great work being done at Passages on behalf of local residents with physical and/or intellectual challenges.

Field of Interest Endowments

A Field of Interest fund allows donors to specify an interest area, either broadly or narrowly defined. The Foundation has discretion to make grants within the donor’s interest area. Funds can be endowed, or principal may also be available for grants depending on donor intent.

When you endow your designated fund, your giving will provide a lasting legacy to sustain the nonprofits you select. A Brilliant Legacy

“The first olive is the hardest one to get out of the jar.”

While that may sound like a Confucius saying stuffed into a fortune cookie, it is actually a Don-ism inspired by Don Wood, a local entrepreneur who built a magnificent company and carved out a legacy that will impact Whitley County residents, and really all of Northeast Indiana, forever.

While this annual report is a reflection of activity that took place at the Community Foundation in 2018, it is being compiled in 2019. And what a difference a few months make. We lost Don in April of this year. Gone ahead, but never, never to be forgotten because unbeknownst to many, the savvy businessman had a philanthropist’s heart.

Don understood the power of planned giving and he had one last dream to accomplish. With a team of professional advisors and a nod to family, he laid the framework for what would become the 80/20 Foundation Trust, a private foundation dedicated to transforming the industrial workforce in Northeast Indiana. By generating opportunities for individuals and institutions in the place he called home, Don’s lasting gift promises to have a transformative impact on our region of the state, enhancing the areas of engineering technology, industrial technology, machine technology, sales, leadership and entrepreneurship.

How thankful we are that Don Wood and his sons chose Whitley County as the site for their businesses years ago. We were blessed again in late 2018 when a gift from the Wood Family allowed the Community Foundation to meet the GIFT VII challenge match made possible by Lilly Endowment. The donation resulted in a new endowed fund that will offer unrestricted grants for the greater good of our community. Among the first of many great things to unfold as a result of Don’s generosity and vision, we’ve named it The Wood Family First Olive Fund and like olive trees that can live thousands of years, we are appreciative in knowing that this new fund will bear fruit for generations to come.

Janet Hinen dedicated her life to raising some smart cookies. If she had a secret recipe, it was simply to make learning fun. She understood that kids had a lot going on in their lives outside school and sometimes loving them was more important than a red grade at the top of a paper. Known for inviting entire classrooms of students to her home for end-of-year water fights, hosting Tickled Pink fundraisers where kids could tell a joke for a quarter, and bringing in treats for no reason, Janet’s true gift was showing those around her the true meaning of kindness. That said, nothing gave her more pleasure than seeing her students grow and learn.

A graduate of Columbia City High School and Ball State University, Janet spent her entire career teaching at Whitley County Consolidated Schools before retiring in 2016 due to illness. Prior to her passing, she established an endowment fund at the Community Foundation of Whitley County to share her love of teaching. The Giving a Helping Hand Fund was entirely her idea and for generations to come, it will benefit K-5 elementary school teachers new to Whitley County Consolidated Schools.

The endowment fund will provide grants to help each teacher make their classroom a special place. The money can be used for decorations, snacks or supplies for a unique classroom project; the choice is theirs. Grants will be made to teachers in both traditional and special needs classrooms during their first year of employment at WCCS.

Janet’s hope was that her love of teaching will be carried forward. You’ll know that is occurring when you come across a teacher who is a shelter for the quirky kids, allowing them to be who they are and celebrating their differences; a teacher who tells jokes and laughs at theirs; who sings, dances or does jumping jacks to start the day; and a teacher who, at some point during the school year, makes each student feel as though they are a favorite. Janet urged each student to be their best self, but the most important lesson she taught was how to be a good person.

She was a treasure, adored by her students, loved by her family and friends. The Community Foundation is proud to be carrying out her legacy.

2018 Annual Report | Community Foundation of Whitley County
27
This annual report shared stories of two generous, local philanthropists; one was a successful business visionary, the other a devoted school teacher. They both shared a love for Whitley County and they both wanted to leave a gift for the future.

As we move through life, we are all building a legacy that one day we will leave behind. Family members, friends, even acquaintances will remember us for our work, the causes and organizations we supported, and the special ways we connected with others. A carefully fashioned estate plan can be an important component of a personal legacy as you determine how you will distribute your tangible assets to heirs, charity and others you care about.

As a part of your estate plan, a will or living trust can be more than a practical tool for efficient distribution of your estate—it can be a reflection of your values, expectations, and concern for family and loved ones. The Community Foundation of Whitley County exists as a resource to help you consider giving options that may include maximizing dollars available to loved ones or which charitable causes you might like to include in your planning. Whether you opt to remember a local non-profit, your college alma mater, a church or a charity on another continent, we can offer suggestions and a variety of tools to help you meet your intent. We can also be a resource for your professional advisors and are more than happy to talk with attorneys, accountants and insurance representatives.

If you do not have a will, or if you haven’t reviewed your will in the past few years, plan to visit your attorney. Over half of Americans die without leaving a valid, up-to-date will. The results can be tragic: complete loss of control over asset distribution, unnecessarily higher taxes, and added expenses due to extraneous costs. Don’t let procrastination keep you from properly planning. If you need a place to start, give us a call here at the Community Foundation – (260) 244-5224; there’s no cost involved – we’re here for good and for those who want to do good!
